Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the ABA Section of International Law ("The Section"), we are pleased to extend you a warm welcome to a very special Fall Meeting in Buenos Aires. The Section’s Fall Meeting is one of the world’s most important gatherings of international lawyers and we are glad that you have chosen to be with us!

While you are in Buenos Aires, you will never stand still! Tuesday evening will feature our new Hospitality Night at the homes of attorneys from Buenos Aires (please note this reception was complimentary, but subject to space, so you will have been notified prior to the conference if you were selected to participate in this reception). On Wednesday early morning we have our soon to be “traditional” 5k Run/2k Power walk. Even if you did not pre-register for this event, or are a sporadic jogger, we encourage you to participate! During the week we have over 70 fantastic continuing legal education sessions with world-class speakers ranging from Business Disputes to Rule of Law. You especially do not want to miss out on the 4.5 Credits of Ethics CLE! Programs approved for Ethics CLE are noted in the following pages.

In the evenings, we hope that you enjoy our wonderful networking opportunities around Buenos Aires. Wednesday is our Opening Reception at the Hilton Buenos Aires, followed by optional Committee dinners, Thursday will carry a special treat at the Palacio Paz (transportation provided), and Friday we will dance the night away at the Chair’s Closing Reception/Dinner/Dance at the Yacht Club Puerto Madero (only a short walk from the Hilton hotel). We have also planned daily activities around Buenos Aires for registered spouses, significant others and guests.

The Section’s 60+ committees are its true heart, and the committees will be front and center at this Meeting. Committee meetings and dinners are open to everyone registered, regardless of whether you are already a committee member. Each provides a great opportunity to meet with leaders in the field and to make contacts that can last a lifetime. Please speak with the staff members at the registration desk for more information.

We want to especially thank the Buenos Aires City Chapter for their tremendous and continued support in bringing the Section’s Fall Meeting to this great city. Your work has truly made a difference and we thank you for your hard work and dedication to our Section.

We thank you all for joining us in the magical city of Buenos Aires and look forward to sharing the coming days with you!

Sincerely,

Marcelo Bombau

Get in the Driver’s Seat: What is Driving Changes in the Legal Marketplace
LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS
The Canadian Bar Association has undertaken the CBA Legal Futures Initiative which is a research and development initiative to gain a better understanding of the future practice environment for lawyers. Significant changes are underway in the legal marketplace and new models for the practice of law are emerging. In this new legal marketplace there will be front seat drivers and those along for the ride. The CBA is taking a driver’s role and is pursuing a comprehensive knowledge-based, client focused, lawyer-driven initiative that has surveyed a broad cross-section of stakeholders. The final report is to be released in August 2014. This program will share what has been learned and where the legal profession is going.

IP Licensing in Brazil and Argentina: Problems and Opportunities
BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

This program explores legal and practical aspects of technology transfer operations with a special focus on Brazil and Argentina. In Brazil, for instance, governmental approvals of technology transfer contracts are required, the concept of technology license (as opposed to definitive assignment) is not accepted and permanent confidentiality obligations are not permitted. In Argentina, there are de facto restrictions that may prevent an Argentinian licensee from remitting payments due under these contracts outside the country. The panelists will provide a detailed view of applicable restrictions and discuss the alternatives that can be considered and implemented by the companies in order to negotiate safe and feasible contracts.

PE/VC in Latin America: Challenges and Opportunities in a Growing but Challenging Market

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

The Latin American environment for PE/VC investments has been developing rapidly since the beginning of the 21st century. In the past few years the industry has witnessed many well-known international PE/VC sponsors invest in Latin America, primarily in the consumer, infrastructure, finance, technology and real estate industries. Our panel will introduce and outline the Latin American framework for PE/VC investing, and discuss the challenges and opportunities of this business, focusing particularly on the unique issues of the region including perceptions of domestic and international investors, participation of local pension funds, realities of exit strategies, governance arrangements, fund formation and operation, and emerging issues that will concern all potential PE/VC investors in Latin America.

Sovereign Debt Enforcement: The U.S. Supreme Court Wades Into the Argentinian Default Case

DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION; PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

This exciting program has a balanced panel that will update you on the recent progression of this issue before the U.S. Supreme Court and the reaction by Argentina to a string of adverse U.S. court decisions. Is this attempt to avoid sovereign debt repayment a battle of political will or of selected country laws? Is selection of laws in favor of an unfriendly jurisdiction’s located thousands of miles from the debtor nation fair to a country’s struggling efforts? Is Argentina truly struggling? Why is Argentina any different than other nations that have been forced to honor their sovereign debt obligations with austerity and brutal economic change?

Germany is deactivating its nuclear power plants and it is unclear what will replace the power needs of this energy consuming economy. Chinese solar panel manufacturers are scrambling for the last grain of solar rice while ‘death ray’ solar reflectors are being built in California. The Greenies are shaking asparagus spears over fracking in the U.S. and Brazil and Elon Musk has an electric car that will go 0-60 in 4.2 seconds. What’s happening to the world and will windmills come to the rescue? What are the jurisdictional limits of the regulators? Will the courts overrule the policy makers and is that even possible in countries in Europe and Asia. Which entities will survive? Find out when our panel of energy and finance experts and surprise guests discuss energy consumption and production and its effect on YOU.

In order to participate in infrastructure projects, foreign investors seek good returns and a degree of safety. Many governments, including Argentina, urgently need to redevelop urban areas and build infrastructure. However, the financial crisis along with external and internal factors have created significant obstacles to external financing. This program will provide an initial presentation, and interactive ‘mock’ projects (featuring all attendees working in groups) where a government agency seeks to carry out an infrastructure project, and engages international agencies and investors to establish the necessary legal and financial structure. This diverse panel of experts will discuss the challenges of large, complex redevelopment and infrastructure projects and identify key legal and economic requirements to succeed as well as in identifying innovative solutions for projects requiring intensive cooperation and foreign financing.

Are Quotas for Women on Boards the Answer in Latin America?: Leveraging Best Practices Across Regions
HUMAN RIGHTS; BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Experts have maintained that a better gender balance at the top offers substantial advantages for companies. Among those are the fact that a balance between men and women results in more balanced corporate decision-making, greater profitability and even the possibility to avoid bankruptcy risks. But, if this is so, why do so few women hold posts in company boards and management positions? And numbers don’t lie. In the European Union, women on average comprise less than 20% of board members of the largest publicly listed companies. Participation of women in corporate boardrooms is very low in Latin America and the U.S. follows suit. For some though, change is on the way. This panel will explore these emerging best practices.

Bridging the Gap between Europe and Latin America in Cross-Border Corporate, M&A and Other Transactions: Bringing Brussels to Buenos Aires and São Paulo to Zurich and Crossing the Culture and Legal Practice Tradition Divide in the Process!

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE; M&A / FINANCE / TAX

South American & European cross-border transactional activity has increased significantly in recent years due to a combination of high growth potential and underpenetrated markets. As a result, European investors are becoming increasingly involved in transactions with South American companies. This program will provide a unique forum for lawyers from Europe and South America to provide a comparative insight into the key legal issues and practical difficulties encountered by the parties to such transactions. The panel will address the common pitfalls encountered by parties around issues such as language, culture and tradition, regulatory framework and legal enforcement with a particular emphasis on resolving such issues and offer a practical insight into the do’s and don’ts which are, in their experience, critical to the success or otherwise of such deals.

Cross-Border Enforcement of Judgments in the Americas: A Comparative Case Study

DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

With the current controversy and publicity over Chevron’s challenge to the enforceability in the United States of a judgment from Ecuador and the decisions of the Miami district court and Eleventh Circuit in refusing enforcement of a Nicaraguan judgment in the Osorio litigation, cross-border enforcement of judgments in the Americas is a topic that not only presents interesting legal issues but also significant political and diplomatic issues. This program will utilize a hypothetical case study, including a mock argument before a United States federal court, and a panel discussion including legal experts from two South American countries, to provide a comparative analysis of the approach that is taken by courts in various countries in the Americas to cross-border enforcement of judgments and arbitral awards.

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Business activities and social communications are now without borders. In our travels, our electronic device compulsions, and with information technology pervading every aspect of our day-to-day lives, rendering frontiers more permeable, how do we secure the information we wish (or need) to keep confidential to protect our privacy, our businesses and customers? Multinational corporations, more frequently than ever before, must navigate between U.S. litigation discovery demands seeking the production of documents and information located in the European Union and other countries with their own, often more stringent, data protection requirements. This panel will present the status of related banking, labor, and information technology laws in the U.S., Latin America and the EU with a focus on differences as a source of potential conflicts in cross-border dealings, it will offer guidelines to prevent, address, and resolve such conflicts.

Rough Waters: Developing International Legal Protections for Underwater Cultural Heritage

PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

Last year France ratified UNESCO’s Convention on the Protection of Underwater Cultural Heritage (UCH), making it increasingly likely that the Convention will be re-considered by other major maritime nations and its provisions will begin to shape an international standard in addressing issues such as the extent to which commercial exploitation of discovered underwater heritage should be permitted, the value of scientific exploration versus in situ preservation, and questions of shared ownership between indigenous groups and the flagship state. How have recent cases shaped the international protections of underwater cultural heritage, and how could these issues have been addressed under the 2001 UNESCO UCH Convention? This distinguished panel of professionals will discuss how issues regarding commercial exploitation and concepts of shared ownership have already developed in the area of underwater cultural heritage, particularly in the context of cases that have involved South American countries, and how these issues could continue to evolve under the standards set forth in the 2001 UNESCO UCH Convention.

Women's Empowerment through Land Ownership: New Strategies in the Global Agenda for Human Rights and Development

HUMAN RIGHTS; PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

Securing land tenure is a vital means of advancing gender equality and women’s empowerment. Although many countries recognize equal land rights for women and men, effective implementation remains a challenge. The problem is exacerbated by cultural norms that undermine women’s access, use and control over land. Policy-makers and advocates are turning their attention to two trends with the potential to transform the debate on a global scale. One is grounded in human rights, and the other in development. This panel of experts drawn from international agencies, advocacy groups and academia will assess the opportunities for bolstering women’s land rights. They will make special reference to the poor and indigenous populations in Central and Latin America, where widespread land insecurity leads to a further erosion of human rights and economic opportunities.

The Ethics of Transnational Practice: A Roundtable of Current Issues

LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

This program will focus on two current developments that continue to receive attention—alternative business structure and cross-border conflicts of interest. First, alternative Business Structures (ABS), as a new business model for the practice of law, involves discussion of the risk of conflicts, absence of protection of the privilege, lack of quality control. Ultimately, the question is whether the fears are justified? What benefit(s) go to the consumer; from the access to justice perspective, does ABS provide more affordable models? The second point of discussion will focus on conflicts of interest and the Transnational Practitioner, and discuss the impact of differing legal cultures, multi-jurisdictional teams, and applicable rules. Those rules include issues relating to attorney-client confidentiality, ability of non-lawyers to share fees, aiding and abetting unauthorized practice of law, the reach of ABA Model Rule 5.5 and recent recommendations of the 2020 Committee to resolve cross-border conflicts of interest, pro hac vice reforms and the issue of “fly in, fly out.”

Avoiding Collateral Damage: Implementing Anti-Bribery Compliance Programs and Conducting Internal Investigations in Different Legal Environments

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

When “we don’t speak the same legal language,” serious misunderstandings and unforeseen consequences can arise in implementing anti-bribery compliance programs and conducting internal investigations in unfamiliar legal settings. Problems can become more pronounced when common law and civil law trained attorneys seek to address obligations now being imposed by the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the UK Bribery Act, and other legal regimes in Latin American and in other foreign settings. Latin American practitioners with extensive experience working with foreign counsel will be joined by U.S. and UK defense attorneys, with backgrounds as prosecutors, in fleshing out the range of issues that can serve as a basis for misunderstandings with a view to providing insight as to how to overcome these pitfalls.

M&A in the Defense and Aerospace Industry: Tales From the Trenches and Lessons Learned

M&A / FINANCE / TAX; BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Acquiring or selling a company involved in the defense sector represents specific challenges. The acquirer is often a well-established company with robust processes and a long history of compliance. Yet, they rely on acquisition of smaller-size technology companies, sometimes in a foreign jurisdiction, but often with activities in other jurisdictions, to expand and diversify their lines of products and markets. This often creates a clash of cultures that cannot be ignored. The program will discuss these specific challenges from the points of view of a buyer, of an investment banker and external counsels. The discussion will touch upon, among other things, procurement issues, licenses, export controls, anti-corruption measures, intellectual property and employment.

Sovereignty Rules? Implications of Recent U.S. Court Decisions Involving Argentina
PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

Much of the aftermath of Argentina’s 2001 debt crisis played out in the courtrooms of the Southern District of New York and the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. These cases, which often make front-page news in Argentina, have shaped-and re-shaped-U.S. law on the rights of sovereign debtors, making the United States an attractive forum for sovereign nations’ creditors. This panel of leading lawyers and experts, some of whom were directly involved in these litigations, will focus on the recent U.S. court cases involving the Republic of Argentina. The discussion will include the U.S. Supreme Court’s look at BG Group v. Argentina, the Second Circuit’s recent watershed pari passu decision in NML Capital v. Argentina, and the Supreme Court’s decision regarding discovery of Argentina’s assets and those of its alleged alter egos. The panelists will also contrast those U.S. cases with rulings adopted in cases involving Argentina in other domestic courts. This promises to be a lively debate about the legal underpinnings of these decisions and their greater impact on international relations, sovereign debt restructuring, and the role that ‘sovereignty’ plays in the commercial arena.

Global Strategic Alliances and IP-Centric Product Development
BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

In times of open innovation, there is a consensus among the world’s most innovative companies that it is not possible to develop all necessary R&D activities in house. The main reasons for this conclusion are: (i) even though the company has a very well structured R&D department, it is not likely that it will have all technical expertise to develop its R&D activities; (ii) it is too expensive to conduct all R&D activities alone; and (iii) the company does not wish to take alone all risks involved in a R&D project. Based on this scenario, the companies started developing collaborative R&D projects with third parties (private companies, public entities, funding agencies, etc.) However, even though collaborative R&D projects can offer a number of benefits (risks division, cost reduction, etc.), they also bring a lot of concerns to the company, such as: rights of the parties concerning the results/ IP generated in the project; confidentiality of the project; management of the resources applied by the parties to develop the project; post-contractual issues, etc. The purpose of this panel is to discuss, from a comparative analysis of the laws and practice of different countries (with a special focus on Brazil and Argentina, in comparison to the practice in US and Europe), how these concerns can be properly addressed during the negotiation of the R&D projects and the drafting of the contracts.

The Challenges of Anti-Corruption Compliance and its Impact on Global Mobility

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

As global mobility increases in emerging markets, corporations are faced with a broader array of compliance issues in their effort to transfer talent and expand operations and must avoid temptations to circumvent regulations or bureaucracy encountered in emerging markets. This program provides an overview of the challenges companies face in developing effective and integrated compliance programs adhering to FCPA and local anti-corruption laws in an effort to avoid exposure. The panel will offer the perspectives of in-house counsel, employment, corporate and immigration attorneys on best practices to mitigate risks, and will outline critical steps corporations should follow to limit liability.

Educating the Future
Transnational Lawyer: Models of Legal Education and Legal Scholarship in Latin America

LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

The model for training and educating tomorrow’s lawyers used in Latin America is in many ways fundamentally different from the model used in the United States. Yet, as the legal profession experiences a major change, so too must the academy change and grow with it, in order to better prepare today’s students for tomorrow’s challenges. In this program, experts in legal education from various jurisdictions in Latin America and from the United States will discuss and debate the advantages and disadvantages of different models of legal education in use in the Americas. The moderators will facilitate a spirited discussion and will include voices from the audience in the conversation, so that educators and practitioners from Latin America and the United States can learn from one another.

Global Anti-Corruption Enforcement Efforts in the Post-Recession World: Latin America and Beyond

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE; PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

One of the few positive outcomes of the global economic recession has been an opportunity for increased global anti-corruption enforcement, with many countries’ populations becomingly increasingly dissatisfied with government corruption and calling for reform. At the same time, many Latin American economies have experienced faster-than-average recoveries from the recession, and quickly growing markets in these countries could pose increased risks for corruption. This panel will address the increased cooperation among global enforcement agencies, especially in the years since the recession began, with a focus on renewed efforts at collaboration between U.S. enforcement agencies and those in South America, including Argentina, Brazil and Mexico.

LATAM Investments Reviewed: Keep Your Friends Close and Your Enemies Closer
M&A / FINANCE / TAX

During the last decade, major investors from and into Latin America have come under boosted scrutiny from governments based on a growing perception that they have been excessively reducing their global effective tax rates. What has been done in response to that perception? These governments have strengthened their treaty networks and introduced or refined domestic rules. Investors now face increasing challenges to tax planning from controlled foreign corporation, transfer pricing, thin capitalization and upstream taxation rules. This program will focus on recent developments in Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and Colombia as well as important court decisions to counter base erosion and international tax planning, and their practical impact on international trade and inbound and outbound transactions and planning in the region.

The Uruguay-Argentina Paper Mill Dispute: A River Runs Through It
DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

Since 2005, Uruguay and Argentina have been embroiled in a dispute over Uruguay’s authorization of construction of pulp and paper mills on the Uruguay River that defines the border between the two countries. Argentina’s concerns about pollution from the operations led to heated debates and road blockades when diplomatic efforts failed to produce results. The dispute was brought before both the International Court of Justice (ICJ) and the Mercosur Tribunal. The panelists will detail the positions of Argentina, Uruguay, the local populace and the paper mill as they discuss arguments made before the ICJ. In addition, the panel will discuss the impact of the ICJ and Mercosur rulings on current activities in the two disputing countries.

Closing Courts Down: Residual Mechanisms and the After-Life of International Criminal Courts

PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

A variety of criminal courts established over the past 25 years adjudicated violations of international law. These courts include the International Criminal Tribunal for Yugoslavia, the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, and ‘hybrid courts’ such as the Special Court for Sierra Leone, the Criminal Panels of the District Court of Dili, the ‘Regulation 64’ Panels in Kosovo, and the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia. In 2013, the Special Court for Sierra Leone completed its judicial mandate following the appeals judgment in the Charles Taylor case. With the primary work of the court done, issues remain including: preservation of evidence and archival of materials; potential requests for pardon or commutation of sentences, and ongoing issues of witness protection. This panel will discuss residual issues and the lessons which may be applied to other criminal tribunals as they complete their mandates, as well as ethical issues regarding the temporary nature of the courts, the long-term legacy of international justice, and ethical obligations of attorneys appearing before courts that disappear.

Key Drivers for Latin American Investing in United States Public Companies

M&A / FINANCE / TAX

Globalization creates threats and opportunities for businesses. Latin American investment in United States public companies is increasing and investors need legal advice to make their investments successful. This program will highlight the basics that investor’s counsel need to be aware of when making an investment in the States. The panel will explore section 13 D filings, insider trading rules, short swing sales, HSR and CFIUS filings, when investors have to make a tender offer and other issues they face domestically in Latin America in making the investment. The program will have U.S. lawyers and Latin American lawyers and will go through the basics of an acquisition in the United States from each lawyer’s perspective.

Remedies For Technology Venture Capitalists in Latin America: An Uncharted Journey

DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

Is venture capital technology investment in Latin American (Latam) a potential diamond mine, or a minefield? Growth in the technology sectors in the Mercosur region has truly exploded in recent years. But the technology industry is largely undiscovered territory to many Latam judges, and the pace of judicial resolution is often slow. Alternative dispute resolution mechanisms exist, but enforcement of awards is untested in many jurisdictions. This interactive panel will analyze potential remedies for VC’s in the Latam technology sector, exploring enforcement of provisional and permanent remedies; civil and criminal jurisdiction; Bitcoin usage in Latam investment; the impact of government regulation; and the availability of insurance and contractual protections for investors.

Taming the Hydra: The Role of Corporate Counsel in Inter-Jurisdictional Legal Issues

LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

In a world of extensive global trade, in-house counsel for multinational corporations must juggle a wide range of complex regulatory issues across multiple jurisdictions that might impact the ability of their company to do business. In-house counsel must wrestle with a vast array of regulatory issues in jurisdictions around the world related to anti-trust matters, corporate compliance, government procurement, environmental law and customs issues. In-house counsel must also interact with governments, and with legal counsel in countries around the world. This program examines the challenges faced by in-house counsel and provides insights into the relationships built with government institutions and outside counsel to assist in balancing the many varied, competing, and sometimes contradictory regulatory issues company may face in conducting a global business.

The Right to be Forgotten in Latin America: Legislation, Cases in Law and Trends

HUMAN RIGHTS

The new tools and Internet sites originate new levels of indiscretion and new nuances for life in society. Within this context the so called right to be forgotten, may be understood as the right of individuals to have their data no longer processed, and deleted when they are no longer needed for legitimate purposes. However, this right has been applied differently throughout the world. The panel will discuss this important subject with a special application to Latin America. The panel will explore the issues faced by the different legal systems, such as privacy and freedom of speech from the European Union, Latin America and U.S. perspective. The panel will discuss enforcement of remedies; the liability of ISPs; jurisdiction; and the various laws governing the issue.

Do it the American Way: The Rise of Plea Bargaining, Leniency Agreements & Criminal Settlements in Civil Law Jurisdictions

DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

Until recently, rules of criminal procedure in most civil law countries provided very limited possibilities for settlements or prohibited them altogether. Criminal law had to be governed by principle and settlements were therefore unsuitable. The situation has changed or is a matter of public debate in many countries due to the influence of other fields of the law, common law jurisdictions, budget restrictions, the need for a speedy and efficient justice system and enforcement by international organizations. Qualified practitioners from civil law countries with an extensive understanding of common law systems will discuss how settlements have become or are likely to become a trend in their jurisdiction, how this has changed their practice, the roles of Prosecutors and investigating magistrates, disclosure issues, victim compensation and provide insights on how the shift is likely to impact cross-border criminal matters.

Environmental Developments After Macondo: An African Perspective

REGIONAL ISSUES / ENVIRONMENTAL; HUMAN RIGHTS

This program will focus on the Macondo blowout incident from 2010, which brought about significant changes in environmental regulations and aimed at ensuring safety of oil and gas operations in certain African countries. Repercussions from the disaster effected several African countries, and new statutes and security measures were implemented at a time when geological and geographical developments had created high return opportunities, with an even higher degree of risk. Drilling to even deeper geological horizons and production in environmentally sensitive areas warrants special attention to environmental compliance and creates the need for new, more sophisticated approaches to risk management. Join us for a discussion of the past and best practices for the future.

International Tax Planning in Emerging Countries

M&A / FINANCE / TAX

As the marketplace becomes increasingly globalized, economic players in more and more countries ask their governments to lower the barriers that hinder international trade. One of the biggest barriers arises from taxation imposed on that trade. Besides obvious forms of cross border taxes, international businesses are very often faced with strains resulting from double taxation of the revenue generated in different countries. To counter this problem, states have concluded many treaties designed to avoid two countries from fully taxing the same stream of income. However, many parts of the world have not yet negotiated such an elaborate network of agreements on taxation. This program will explore the opportunities for tax planning in emerging markets, while highlighting the complexities and pitfalls that need to be kept in mind while also focusing on international tax law practices in such countries.

NAFTA, Mercosur and CAFTA: Should They Merge into One Hemispheric Free Trade Agreement

PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

The trade agreement known as Mercosur is an influential and important agreement affecting trade within Latin America. NAFTA is its counterpart for North American countries while CAFTA-DR is a free trade agreement that includes most Central American countries. Together they represent a large amount of the world’s trade and commerce. Given the failure of the World Trade Organization to be able to produce successful multilateral trade agreements among all their member countries, an alliance between these three powerful regional trading regimes could be a significant event creating a strong Western hemispheric trading block with great influence. The factors that might facilitate such an agreement and the obstacles it may face will be discussed by prominent attorneys from the region.

Voting Rights for Indigenous People in the Americas

HUMAN RIGHTS

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the United Nations International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights guarantee the right to take part in the government of one’s country through periodic and genuine elections and to vote and to be elected. Concepts of adequate representation are significant to the representation of peoples who have faced barriers to voting. This panel will consider the inclusiveness of indigenous peoples and ethnic minorities in the Americas and the protection of indigenous cultural traditions, customs and institutions. The panel will also recommend steps that must be taken to provide the internationally guaranteed right to vote including registration, access, voter education, traditional and modern modes of voting, and international standards as applied to indigenous populations.

Below the Surface: Drilling Deep in Law and Regulation to Reach the Americas’ New Energy Frontier

REGIONAL ISSUES / ENVIRONMENTAL

Recent discoveries and developments in unconventional and conventional fields have brought a revolutionary boom to the oil and gas industry and the potential to reposition the Americas as the dominant force in the world energy market. Argentina is revitalizing its domestic energy production. Mexico similarly is promoting its attractiveness to stimulate exploration and development of its unconventional hydrocarbons and Brazil’s subsalt fields may become the golden frontier for profitable projects. Just as the new frontier brings potential opportunities, it also brings legal risks. Experts who are active in the region, will share their insights and experiences in this fast-growing industry addressing important legal issues, including the treatment of foreign investments, regulatory issues of international tender bids, bilateral tax treaties, optimal financing structures, and risk management strategies to mitigate uncertainties in the political, legal, and regulatory landscapes.

Convincing Reluctant Counterparties to Mediate International B2B Disputes Across Borders

DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

Businesses and their counsel increasingly rely on mediation either in combination with arbitration or as an alternative, as it has proven to be an efficient and economical path for resolving complex international business disputes. However, despite mediation’s substantial gain in popularity in North America and parts of Western Europe, there are still corporate and legal cultures where it is not widely accepted. This lively and interactive panel will examine the use of mediation for private, international commercial disputes across borders and explore strategies, through a mock negotiation, for convincing a resistant counter-party to come to the mediation table and how to achieve a successful result.

Kicking Older Lawyers Out: Mandatory Retirement Policies in the Legal Profession

LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

Too old or too over the hill to practice law? Many firms in the U.S., Canada, Europe and Latin America believe so and have instituted mandatory retirement ages, and/or measures designed to reduced the importance and compensation of aging partners, so as to encourage them to leave the firm, as well as prohibiting those partners from ‘competing’ with the firm after they are kicked onto the street. Although several U.S. bar associations have declared policies against mandatory retirement policies for partners, such policies are not illegal under U.S. law nor under the laws of the various jurisdictions which will be discussed. This panel will discuss the retirement policies of selected large firms in the various jurisdictions and consider the issues raised.

Growing Pains of Latin American Antitrust Enforcement: How National Agencies are Moving Away From U.S. and EU Models While Enhancing Regional Cooperation

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Companies increasingly need to address multi-jurisdictional and private enforcement of Latin American competition laws. This panel – featuring leading antitrust practitioners from Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile and Colombia, will consider how Latin America is moving beyond U.S. and EU influence, reviewing important achievements and challenges to be faced. The panel will focus on the current status of antitrust enforcement in Latin America as well as the similarities and differences among the national enforcers. Key issues to be addressed include: Heightened enforcement against cartels; the current upsurge of dominance cases; regional coordination and cooperation with EU and U.S. authorities; and private damages actions.

Extractive industries have thrived in Latin America, Africa and Asia driven by rising global commodity prices and foreign direct investment. This has often taken place within contexts of weak governance and rule of law, instigating or perpetuating violations of human rights, threats to the environment and lack of consultation of historically marginalized indigenous groups and affected communities. In order to address this, the United Nations established the UNGPs, which assert the state’s duty to protect human rights, the corporate responsibility to respect human rights, and the need for greater access to remedy for victims of business-related abuses. This panel will address the issues of implementation, effectiveness and best practices to in-house experience that offer opportunities for company-civil society-community engagement and consultation and what regulatory remedies are successful that contribute to fostering and upholding the rule of law.

International Arbitration and Discovery 10 years after Intel v. AMD
DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION
The panel will discuss the arbitration side of obtaining discovery (document production and depositions) in the United States which has been reignited by the 11th Circuit’s 2012 decision holding that the statute is applicable to discovery for foreign commercial arbitrations (contrary to prior rulings by the 2nd and 5th Circuits) and remains an interesting potential option notwithstanding the 11th Circuit’s recent substitution of its decision with a new opinion. A panelist from the 11th Circuit will start the discussion with an update on the status in the U.S. Then other panelists will discuss the impact (if any) for international arbitrations in light of their own experiences, and will engage with audience members regarding their experiences and opinions on the topic.

HUMAN RIGHTS
There are 377,100 refugees currently living in Latin America. The year 2014 notably marks the 30th Anniversary of the Cartagena Declaration, an agreement between Latin American states that was formulated to include a range of detailed commitments to peace, democratization, regional security and economic co-operation and which broadened the definition of a refugee. Latin American refugee experts will discuss the current status and future of various asylum systems in Latin America, highlighting the need for a regional approach to asylum processes. Voices and stories will be brought to the discussion through the use of video and other multimedia approaches. For every refugee, the refugee status determination (RSD) process is a necessary hurdle for a new beginning. Despite its importance, RSD practices vary across nations and RSD decision-makers. The panel will address topics such as: Fora and time period for accessing RSD; the right of access to information; the right to appeal; accelerated proceedings for RSD; and the role of civil society in improving asylum systems.

The Hidden Traps of Foreign Sales Intermediaries

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

One of the fundamental business objectives for any company selling a product is to get that product to market, and to do so efficiently and effectively while minimizing risk. When the market is a foreign market and the business uses an independent intermediary, naturally the business faces additional issues and risks that have to be navigated. Due to peculiar aspects of local laws protecting sales intermediaries, unexpected risks with serious consequences routinely materialize and the business will face significant, and sometimes unpredictable, issues relating to management of the foreign sales intermediary. This program brings together experienced business lawyers from the United States and key jurisdictions in Latin America to identify and explore the most pressing issues that arise from use of sales intermediaries in Latin America.

Undoing Business in Latin America: Rule of Law and the Informal Economy

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE; PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

Rule of law programs aimed at strengthening legal institutions in developing countries capture only one segment of the business community—the formal segment. The informal economy—often referred to as the gray market—is often left behind. New ‘formalization’ programs have attempted to bring informal enterprises into the legal fold but have thus far been unsuccessful. The panelists will present their research on rule of law and the informal economy.
in Latin America using case studies of the Colombian gray market, including an analysis of the newly enacted formalization law in Colombia.

El Sur se Pronuncia: What is the Appropriate Level of Regional Integration for the Legal Practice in Latin America?

LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

In the recent past, the tremendous economic growth in parts of Latin America has considerably raised demand for sophisticated legal advice in this part of the world. At the same time the number of projects involving more than one country in the region is also increasing. Does this mean that clients request, and are in fact better served by firms which are acting in a more integrated manner across several countries or the operating on a regional basis? Or is the local expertise better obtained by working with multiple local firms? What issues arise in operating across divergent political-economic systems, whichever model is chosen? What constraints do the professional rules impose upon lawyers working on a regional basis? Members of the panel are experienced private practitioners and senior in-house lawyers. They will discuss their views on what level and form of integration is appropriate and how these can best be achieved.

Advances and Set-Backs in LGBT Rights Around the World

HUMAN RIGHTS

In 2010, Argentina became the first nation in Latin America and the second in the Americas to allow same-sex marriage on a nationwide basis. The first half of this program will review the constitutional and legislative routes of same-sex marriage and domestic partnerships around the world. The second half of the program will consider set-backs to marriage equality and human rights in countries that have recently enacted anti-gay legislation. In Russia, for example, an anti-gay propaganda law was enacted in 2013 to prohibit any public support of gay rights. In Nigeria, a law entered into effect in January 2014 to impose hard imprisonment for entering into a same-sex union, witnessing or attending a same-sex marriage ceremony, or simply attending a gay meeting. The program will discuss the mixture of advances and set-backs in the framework of international human rights and will also consider how and whether activities by associations outside the adversely-affected nations can help the situation of LGBT persons in those countries.

OK, We Have to Observe the FCPA...But That’s It, Isn’t It?

PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW / RULE OF LAW

As has been documented as of late, companies operating abroad are often confronted with foreign anti-corruption laws that are essentially unknown. The consequences can be severe: multi-million dollar fines, imprisonment, and reputational damage. Unfortunately, many people—including cross-border M&A attorneys—still equate anti-corruption laws only with the FCPA and the UK Anti-Bribery Act. Other anti-corruption laws have been on countries’ books for years and there has been increased focus on enforcing these laws. Companies engaged in cross-border M&A need to tailor their due diligence to minimize the corruption risk in foreign jurisdictions. By using a hypothetical, the panel will address the impact of specific anti-bribery laws on due diligence and post-closing activities in cross-border M&A transactions. The panel will also discuss what companies can do to protect themselves against violation of anti-corruption laws in day-to-day operations.

Telecommunications and Broadcasting Regulation in South America: Are the Regulatory Systems in Place Adequate in a Global Market?

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Over the past few years, U.S. networks have started to develop content for the Latin American market and media companies in Latin America are exporting their own content throughout the world. Increasingly, content is being delivered over telecommunication networks (mobile and broadband Internet), often by state sanctioned companies or companies with significant presence in the market. In many countries, governments seek to assert control over the broadcasting sector but not the telecommunications sector. Drawing on the experience in other jurisdictions, including Canada, the U.S. and the European Union, this panel will look at whether the telecommunications and broadcasting regulatory systems in place in Mexico, Brazil and Argentina are helping or hindering the growth and global expansion of media industries in these countries.

The Third Way: Managing Business Relationships and Disputes between Latin America and Northeast Asia

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE; DISPUTE RESOLUTION / LITIGATION

The countries of Latin America and Northeast Asia are major players in the world economy, with a rapidly growing trade ranging from raw materials and commodities to high tech goods and intellectual property. What do Latin America and Northeast Asia have in common? How can they best manage their business relationships and the inevitable disputes? Relations between these two seemingly far apart regions, while strongly influenced by European or American models, could forge a ‘third way’ of managing business relationships and disputes, more suitable to their cultural norms. Experts from both regions will discuss how culture can influence both business negotiations and litigation, and ways to effectively manage related risks.

From Sunset to Dawn: Is International Trade Rising Again in Latin America After the Recession?

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Latin America has not been absent in the massive increase of trade exchanges with the US, Europe and Asia. The political and economic context of the region’s trade is increasingly characterized by the proliferation of intraregional free trade agreements (FTAs) and by a notorious ideological division of country blocks. However, the end of certain regimes marked the initiation of a new era in the region. Recent developments in Latin American countries suppose new trends and challenges for international trade integration (or de-integration). This Panel has the purpose of contributing to the study of trends and prospects of Latin America’s insertion into the new post-recession global scenario in international trade by analyzing this situation from different perspectives.

The panel will address the use and oversight of subcontractors, the inclusion of worker protection and unionization provisions in Free Trade Agreements, and the differences between South America and Asia in the challenges and pressures facing garment manufacturers and employees. Luncheon with Luis Moreno Ocampo

Ticketed Event—$75

Luis Moreno-Ocampo is leading the global practice of Getnick & Getnick LLP as the law firm’s Global Practice Counsel. He was the first Chief Prosecutor of the permanent International Criminal Court, based at The Hague from June 2003 through June 2012. While he was there, his office was involved in twenty of the most serious crises of the 21st century including Iraq, Korea, Afghanistan, and Palestine and he conducted investigations in seven different countries including Libya and Sudan. In October 2012, the World Bank appointed Mr. Moreno-Ocampo to lead an expert panel to examine an alleged corruption conspiracy related to a $3 billion project in Bangladesh. Previously, Mr. Moreno-Ocampo played a crucial role during the transition to democracy in Argentina. In 1985, he was the deputy Prosecutor in the Junta trial in Argentina and later he led investigations against guerrilla leaders and Army officers involved in two military rebellions and dozens of cases of corruption involving high level public officers. Mr. Moreno-Ocampo played a key role in establishing compliance systems in the Telecommunication, Energy, Gas and other privatized services in Argentina. As a private consultant, an active Board member of Transparency International and former president of its Latin America and Caribbean office, and an advisor of the World Bank Institute, he designed anticorruption strategies in more than 40 countries. In 2000, he founded “Mercados Transparetes” (Transparent Markets), an innovative company providing information about public procurement to the private sector. Mr. Moreno-Ocampo has taught seminars in anticorruption strategies at Stanford (2002) and Harvard (2003) and is currently a Senior Fellow at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs at Yale University and a Distinguished Visiting Scholar at New York University. In 2011, The Atlantic included him among the Brave Thinkers, which is a guide to the people risking their reputations, fortunes, and lives in pursuit of big ideas. In that same year, Foreign Policy designated him one of the 100 Top Global Thinkers, the magazine’s portrait of the world’s marketplace of ideas and the thinkers who make them.

Freedom of the Press and the Law (Part 1): The Prosecution of Journalists

HUMAN RIGHTS

The killing and prosecution of journalists and human rights defenders has reached alarming proportions. The problem threatens freedom everywhere. The world has seen journalists murdered while covering the Syrian conflict; threatened and killed while covering Mexican drug cartels; and imprisoned in Sub-Saharan Africa for exposing corrupt government activities. Our experts will address the dangers journalists encounter in these regions. In particular, our experts will discuss the prosecution of journalists in Argentina during the “dirty war” and the prosecution and harassment of journalists in South America and the Middle East, among other regions. LEGAL PRACTICE / ETHICS

This is the third in a series of programs taking the pulse of the changing legal profession, especially with respect to international and transnational practice. While there are some common features of this transformation across jurisdictions, there are key differences as well. In this program, seasoned attorneys from various jurisdictions will explore the distinctive differences, challenges and opportunities that lawyers throughout the Americas encounter today, while exploring ways in which practitioners from the North and South approach different types of law practice and identifying ways they may work effectively together. Understanding Latin American Customs Valuation and Duty Relief

Although Latin America countries are members of the WTO’s Valuation Agreement, each country interprets and applies the rule in its own way. For example, the criteria used to evaluate which valuation method to apply differ from country to country. Similarly, treatment of additions and deductions to customs value, including discounts, rebates, and royalties, are affected by differences in the Latin American legal tradition. These inconsistencies can affect the duties owed and make planning difficult for exporters who do business in multiple countries. This panel will discuss the variety of duty relief programs available within the region and those programs and agreements in place to encourage trade between Latin America and North America. This panel of experts will share their tips for properly valuing imported goods and minimizing duty liabilities.

Customs Enforcement Strategies in Civil and Common Law Jurisdictions

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

Customs administrations are part of the larger administrative and legal context of their individual countries. Consequently, although they are often enforcing the same or similar legal requirements, the approach to enforcement varies considerably from country to country. When lawyers trained in a common law jurisdiction face customs enforcement in a civil law jurisdiction, they may fail to recognize opportunities and defenses that may not be available in their home country. This program will point out some of those differences and illustrate how they impact the defense of customs civil enforcement actions.

This panel of experts will explore the protections afforded to journalists under law. In particular, our experts will discuss foundational international instruments securing the Freedom of Expression and other relevant rights, the scope of those freedoms and a State’s ability to derogate therefrom. Our panel will discuss the impact of 9/11 on the Freedom of Expression and recommend what measures the legal community must take to ensure that journalists are able to function without illegal constraint. This panel will look at the freedoms of speech and press and the precarious balance struck by different legal systems when looking at government claims of national security, and will discuss the importance of a free and robust press to democratic societies and how, in the 21st century, that freedom—and the freedom of speech—have become increasingly vulnerable to manipulation, influence and censorship without the heavy-handed repression associated with totalitarian regimes of the past. Latin American Expropriations:
Biting Off More Than One Can Chew

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

A Region that expects to receive business initiatives from foreign investors has to strongly defend its independence and transparency in the administrative proceedings, while complying with the principles of law regulated by international rules. A strong promotion of investments in specific areas is not enough if the rules of the game are not clear, especially when expropriations and other Governmental measures are taken. Moreover, the access to public tenders or purchases in the context of governmental proceedings is critical for investors. This panel will address issues related to transparency and strict compliance with the law, governmental proceedings, corruption, expropriation proceedings as well as the relevance of tax benefits, competition rules, consumers’ rights, differences in treatment between national and foreign investors if any, as key issues to receive foreign business initiatives.

Nowhere to Hide: Leveling the Playing Field: Global Anti-Corruption Laws 2.0

BUSINESS / REGULATION / COMPLIANCE

A greater and greater number of countries are introducing or amending anti-bribery statutes. Whilst still driven by the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the global anti-corruption regime is rapidly expanding. Recent Developments in Anti-Corruption Law beyond the FCPA and UK Bribery Act include new statutes from Brazil with the Clean Companies Act, the Fighting Foreign Corruption Act amending Canada’s anti-corruption law, and similar regulations (or proposed legal bodies) in other countries such as Russia, India, the UAE, China, and many Latin American countries. Are these new laws genuinely tackling anti-corruption and leveling the playing field or are they being used for selective prosecution of only the deepest pocketed multinational players? RULE OF LAW ACTIVITIES

"To advance the rule of law worldwide"

What We Do:

- INTERNATIONAL LEGAL RESOURCE CENTER: provides technical legal assistance to the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and its 177 country offices worldwide.

- INTERNATIONAL MODELS PROJECT ON WOMEN’S RIGHTS (IMPOWER): a web-based collaborative database to empower the global community on effective reform and enforcement efforts on laws affecting women’s rights.

- RULE OF LAW LETTERS: letters issued by the ABA President to national governments to express the Association’s concerns about alleged intimidation, harassment or abuse of lawyers, judges and human rights advocates.

- INTERNATIONAL LEGAL EXCHANGE PROGRAM (ILEX): arranges Briefing Trips throughout the world, offers legal assistance and training for foreign lawyers and other professionals, and facilitates entry into the United States by foreign attorneys who have been offered training by U.S. law firms.

- WORLD BANK’S GLOBAL FORUM ON LAW, JUSTICE AND DEVELOPMENT: aims at facilitating the identification, discussion, production and/or sharing of innovative and customized legal and institutional tools to address global, regional or national development challenges. The Section serves as a Founding and Intellectual Partner of the Global Forum.

LJD Week 2014 is the Global Forum’s annual meeting. LJD Week 2014 will provide a timely opportunity to discuss, debate, and define the role of law and justice in the post-2015 development agenda. The ABA will host the evening reception on the first day of LJD Week, October 20, 2014 in Washington, DC at the World Bank Headquarters. This reception would not be possible without the generous support of the following law firms:

- Arent Fox LLP
- BakerHostetler LLP
- Paul Hastings LLP
- The Mullikin Law Firm
- American University - Washington College of Law
The International Legal Resource Center (ILRC) is a project that represents the common commitment of UNDP and the American Bar Association Section of International Law to advocate for the rule of law and good governance on a global scale. The ILRC identifies legal experts for short- and long-term to support UNDP programs designed to address a host of substantive legal issues. Services also include conducting legal research and analysis and coordinating legislative assessments.

The ILRC is continually searching to grow and diversify its pool of legal experts for UNDP in-country assignments. If you wish to register to become a legal expert with the ABA-UNDP ILRC or have any questions, please contact: Christina Heid, International Projects Director, at +1-202-662-1034 or christina.heid@americanbar.org.

Learn more about the ILRC by visiting our table at the Fall Meeting or visiting us online at http://ambar.org/ilrc.

GENERAL INFORMATION

EVENT TICKETS
All evening receptions are included with your registration fee with the exception of the Tuesday Hospitality Night which was limited due to space capacity. Tickets for guests/spouses and luncheons may be purchased in advance on the registration form or on-site up until the day before the event is scheduled to take place. We regret that because we must guarantee our final numbers with the hotel and venues in advance of the event, we can not sell same-day tickets. However, there will be a board next to the Registration Desk where meeting attendees may exchange and gift tickets.

BUS SHUTTLE
Bus shuttle service will be provided to the Thursday Reception at Palacio Paz and to the Saturday Gaucho Day (ticketed). Please follow signage onsite and view your event ticket for pick up times and locations.

DRESS CODE
For the 2014 Fall Meeting, business attire is appropriate for programs and meetings as well as the planned social networking events.

For the Friday night reception, dinner and afterhours the attire is “dressy casual” (no ties for the gentleman).

If you are attending the Saturday Gaucho Outing, casual dress is recommended (jeans are fine). Comfortable shoes such as sneakers or flats are recommended.

If you are taking tango lessons, comfortable “closed toe” shoes are recommended.

COAT CHECK
Coat check will be provided Tuesday-Friday on the 2nd Floor.

MANDATORY CONTINUING LEGAL EDUCATION CREDIT (MCLE)
Accreditation has been requested for the 2014 Fall Meeting programs by the ABA MCLE Division from most states with general mandatory continuing legal education requirements for all lawyers admitted in that state. All appropriate paperwork will be available at the registration desk.

The ABA directly applies for and ordinarily receives CLE credit for ABA programs in AK, AL, AR, AZ, CA, CO, DE, GA, GU, HI, IA, IL, IN, KS, KY, LA, MN, MS, MO, MT, NM, NV, NY, NC, ND, OH, OK, OR, PA, SC, TN, TX, UT, VT, VA, VI, WA, WI, and WV. These states sometimes do not approve a program for credit before the program occurs. The expected number of credit hours will be posted to the 2014 Fall Meeting website http://ambar.org/ILFall2014 under the CLE Events and Information tab approximately six weeks before the meeting. This transitional program is approved for both newly admitted and experienced attorneys in NY. For more information about CLE accreditation in your state, visit http://www.americanbar.org/cle/mandatory_cle.html.
New this year, the Section will be utilizing individualized QR codes on your attendee badges to track attendance. All badges will be scanned at the registration desk when you check-in to indicate your attendance at the conference and volunteers will be stationed at program rooms to scan individuals in and out for states that require detailed program tracking.

For delegates from countries where CPD/CLE is mandatory, the ABA will be pleased to provide a Conference Certificate of Attendance which, subject to the exact CPD/CLE requirements, may be used to obtain the equivalent accreditation in your jurisdiction. The Section has certificates that have been approved for attorneys seeking CPD in Italy.

Scholarships are available for this program. For more information please contact intlawmeetings@americanbar.org.

COMMITTEE DINNERS

Take advantage of free time after our evening receptions to enjoy one of the many fine restaurants that Buenos Aires has to offer. This is a great opportunity to continue to network within your practice area with others at the meeting who share your same interests and have casual discussions; many of which will lead to new initiatives and committee programs developing for months to come after you return home. If you have any questions about planning or participating in a committee dinner at the Fall Meeting, please contact Jonathan Lewis at jonathan.lewis@americanbar.org.

COMMITTEE BUSINESS MEETINGS

Most Committees will host business meetings throughout the duration of the conference. For updated information on which committees are holding business meetings, please contact Jonathan Lewis at jonathan.lewis@americanbar.org.

EXHIBITION AREA

The Exhibitors and Sponsors exhibition area will be open from Wednesday, October 22 through Friday, October 24 at the Hilton Buenos Aires, 5th Floor Foyer. Representatives from a variety of service providers catering to the legal community will showcase their latest products and services to aid you in your practice. All meeting attendees are encouraged to visit our exhibitors and sponsors throughout the meeting and in particular during the twice daily networking breaks.

SPEAKER READY ROOM

The Speaker Ready Room is located on the 2nd floor in the Buen Ayre A ballroom Wednesday – Friday from 8:00 am – 6:00 pm. First come, first serve.

MEETING APP

We are excited to announce the launch of our mobile app for the 2014 Fall Meeting! The app serves as your all-in-one event guide by putting everything you need to know right onto your mobile device. Customize your Buenos Aires experience by creating your schedule in advance, seaching basic Spanish phrases and finding things to do around the city. Communicate with other attendees during the event, follow along with presentations and take session notes. Email session notes to yourself and use the app as a reference tool even after the conference ends. The meeting app is currently available for free in iTunes for iOS devices and in Google Play and Amazon for Android devices. Download yours today! Search “ABA SIL” in the app store or download it directly at http:// ativ.me/all14. Once the app is installed you may download the “ABA SIL 2014 Fall Meeting” interactive conference program.

WIFI

Complimentary wireless internet access is available in the ABA meeting rooms and registration/networking area. Please note that the username and password are case-sensitive.

1. Open a web page. The “Guesttek page” will appear.
2. Select “Hmeeting” for meeting spaces, “Hhonors” for sleeping rooms and “Lobby” if accessing wifi in the lobby.
3. If you are residing at the Hilton Buenos Aires, insert your surname and room number. If you are not residing in the Hilton Buenos Aires, select “Guest”.
4. Access Code is “Lexology”.

THANK YOU TO ALL OF OUR VOLUNTEERS!

The Section gratefully acknowledges the assistance of the many volunteers at the meeting – thank you for all of your efforts in ensuring the success of this meeting!
