The Lady Bird Johnson Wildflower Center

4801 La Crosse Ave.

(13.5 mi. from hotel, 26 min drive)

The Lady Bird Johnson Wildflower Center is the University of Texas at Austin's internationally recognized 284-acre native plant botanic garden. The garden is dedicated to inspiring the conservation of native plants in natural and designed landscapes. The Center has guided the development of urban and rural landscapes that incorporate native prairies, green roofs and other sustainable features. It operates North America's largest online resource about native plants, and has set aside millions of seeds of Texas' native plants for future generations and restoration activities.
