As a special treat, all registrants to the main conference on April 5 and 6 may also attend a preconference event if your practice includes motor vehicle related litigation or products liability law. Be sure to set April 4-6 aside. We look forward to seeing you there!
DEAR FRIENDS AND COLLEAGUES:

ATTEND EVENT IF YOUR PRACTICE INCLUDES MOTOR VEHICLE RELATED LITIGATION OR PRODUCTS LIABILITY LAW.

Our faculty of experienced counsel and experts will address legal and technical issues relevant to motor vehicle litigation, as well as recent developments in class actions, regulatory developments, litigating issues related to manufacturer responsibility for recalls, and packaging an effective Daubert or summary judgment motion.

The “Reptile Theory” has been with us in one form or another since the seminal 1990s cases. This distinguished in-house panel will address best practices and helpful tips in managing complex litigation.

REGULATORY DEVELOPMENTS FOR AUTONOMOUS VEHICLES

With automotive product liability trials on the decline, the cases that do go to trial are becoming increasingly complex. This panel will focus on the potential liability of the OEM for improper or inadequate repairs.

The “Reptile Theory” has been with us in one form or another since the seminal 1990s cases. This distinguished in-house panel will address best practices and helpful tips in managing complex litigation.

This distinguished in-house panel will address best practices and helpful tips in managing complex litigation.

This panel of judges, moderated by representatives from both sides of the courtroom, will explore the role of the “Reptile” in post-trial proceedings. The panel will address the following:

1. What is an effective Reptile strategy?
2. The role of expert witnesses in the Reptile strategy (i.e., what is their purpose in the Reptile strategy? Why do we need them? Do we really need them? What should we ask of them?)
3. What is the role of the jury in the Reptile strategy?
4. What is the role of the court in the Reptile strategy?
5. Do we need a Reptile strategy?
6. What are the major challenges and limitations of the Reptile strategy?
7. What are the major benefits and limitations of the Reptile strategy?
8. How can we best handle the Reptile strategy?
9. What is the role of the lawyer in the Reptile strategy?
10. What is the role of the client in the Reptile strategy?
11. What is the role of the defendant in the Reptile strategy?

DEAR FRIENDS AND COLLEAGUES:

Lance Williams, Esq.,

This year’s Motor Vehicle Conference will be held at the Scottsdale Marriott at Ironwood Ranch in Arizona. As always, this program will feature leading figures from the industry, in-house counsel, and trial and appellate lawyers covering the issues that are on the cutting edge of what is happening in both the industry and the law.

The Motor Vehicle Conference will be coordinating donations in support of the Arizona Immigrant and Legal Professionals Network (AILPN), an organization that helps legal and non-legal immigrants with housing, food, clothing, translation as needed, English language instruction, job training, and legal aid. AILPN has been working to help those who have been newly arrived from Central American countries, as well as those who have been newly arrived from Yemen, helping maintain the continuity and quality of life for those who have fled their homes.

With the emergence of autonomous vehicles, so comes the vision of the car cabin of the future. This presentation addresses the alternative cabin layout for autonomous vehicles, where passenger experience is the priority. The panelists share their insights on what the future holds for the industry.

The "Reptile Theory" has been with us in one form or another since the seminal case of Ridge v. Redmond. This panel will cover software code issues and disputes on their discovery battles. This presentation will cover software code issues and disputes on their interplay with U.S. litigation.

More and more product liability claims focus on "defective" software rather than mechanical designs, making this intellectual property the focus of many hard fought discovery battles. This panel will cover software code issues and disputes on their interplay with U.S. litigation.

The program will also feature leading speakers from firms like Davis, Bunn, & Bunn, San Francisco, CA; Hermes, Netburn, O’Connor & Spearing, Boston, MA; Hermes, Netburn, O’Connor & Spearing, Boston, MA, among others, who will address cutting edge technology that can assist in biomechanical analysis.

Be sure to set April 4-6 aside. We look forward to seeing you there!

Sincerely,

David Killoran, Esq.,
Jimmy Rogers, Esq.
